Aliyah is a sweet and caring young lady who would like to be adopted into a loving, supportive, and understanding home where she can be the youngest or only child in the home.

She is very smart and enjoys school. She likes scary movies and books, and is also into anime. She enjoys drawing and listening to music.

Aliyah has been working on her independent living skills. She would like to make more friends, get a job, and save money for things she may want in the future.

Aliyah wants to have close connections with the people around her and enjoys learning more about the people in her life.
